

Segment of the neutron in the past is the singular matrix = $[0. \ 0. \ 0.]$ under any conditions.

The segment decreases for the proton in the past in comparison with the neutron. The segment increases for the proton in the future in comparison with the neutron. Thus, the decay of the neutron promotes the proton's advance into the future.